Hi [REDACTED]

Amazing to think you've only been here 3 months, and had so many huge issues to deal with.

I've decided that if it suits you best, that I'm am happy to withdraw my budget initiative entirely and just put it forward as a notice of motion later on instead.

I was thinking of asking for a report from officers first, but as I didn't get the in depth answer I was hoping for when I asked pre-budget, I've gone on and done my own research and feel confident I can formulate my own NOM.

Kindest regards,

Hi Roslyn,

I didn't end up doing anything with this even though I wanted to because I found interacting with the previous CEO never ended well.

But perhaps you would like to read this over and see if and where it fits in our organisation, perhaps within the scope of my Budget submission around helping sex workers who want to leave the industry? I don't know.

Kindest regards,

Cr Moira Deeming

Some people who received this message don't often get email from [REDACTED] Learn why this is important

Dear Moira, [REDACTED]

I wrote to you earlier in the year to share information about our service supporting people who survived sexual abuse in an institutional setting when they were children. As you may be aware in 2018, the National Redress Scheme (NRS) was established to acknowledge the abuse that occurred by providing ongoing counselling, a monetary acknowledgement up to $150,000 and if the survivor wishes, a Direct Personal Response (an apology) from the institution responsible.

Our service supports people to make a decision about applying to the NRS and provide therapeutic counselling and practical support throughout the application process and all the way to the outcome.

We have just finished an update of our brochure, so please feel free to share far and wide to help raise awareness of our service for survivors of institutional child sexual abuse.

If you or anyone in your network would like more information on the National Redress Scheme or how our service supports people wanting to apply, you can email [REDACTED] who is the program coordinator, and she will be happy to meet with you and provide further information.

If you would like to find out more about how you can support people who had sexual abuse perpetrated against them when they were children in the care of an institution, please email Danielle or redress@rav.org.au.

If clients want to get in contact with us directly they can call 1800 052 674 and speak with our clinical intake worker, or if they would like to speak to the NRS directly they can call 1800 737 377.

To see our new website visit: www.rav.org.au/redress

To visit the NRS website: <https://www.nationalredress.gov.au/>

Best wishes, and thank you for all your service to our community,

[REDACTED]
Redress Community Engagement Officer.
